The Company's Way of Thinking and Policy
on a Reduction in the Share Trading Units

Daiwa House Industry Co., Ltd. believes that a reduction in the number of shares in a trading unit would increase the liquidity of shares in the Company and be a useful measure that promotes the participation of individual investors in the share market, but is aware that the liquidity of shares in the Company is currently assured. In such circumstances, the Company will carefully investigate a reduction in the number of shares in a trading unit, while considering comprehensively matters such as cost-effect balance, stock market trends, the number of shareholders and shareholder composition, etc.
